Genel Ön Görünüş

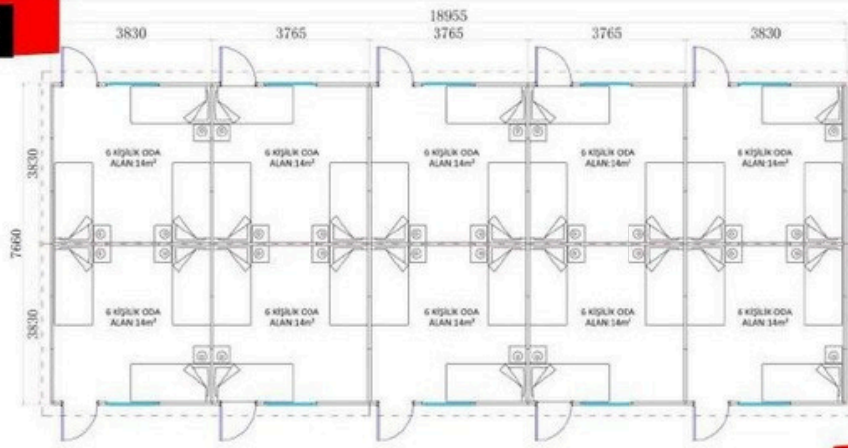

Architectural elevation drawing of a long, single-story building. The building has a red corrugated metal roof and a gravel base. The facade is composed of a series of rectangular frames, each containing a window or a door. The windows are arranged in a repeating pattern, with some having multiple panes. A central door is visible, featuring a small triangular window. A vertical dimension line on the left side of the drawing indicates a height of 2500 units.
